A DAY IN THE CITY

Negotiations Terminated by the Streetsellers.

THE CURSE OF DISORDERS.

Professors: Honored by the Boro Palace.

The report of the last meeting of the street-sellers was received with much interest by the city council. The meeting was held in the large hall of the Boro Palace, and was attended by a large number of the citizens of the city. The discussion was carried on in a most business-like manner, and the resolutions passed were greeted with enthusiasm by the throng of people who had assembled to witness the proceedings.

The council, after much discussion, decided to adopt the resolutions of the meeting, and to endeavor to carry them into effect. The streetsellers were promised full support in their efforts to maintain the order and prosperity of the city. The meeting concluded with a hearty cheer from the assembled crowd.

[Continued on page 2]