

NASA ECLIPSE WEBSITE RESOURCES

TOTAL Solar Eclipse

WHO? WHAT? WHERE?
WHEN? and HOW?

Learn all about the August 21, 2017 total solar eclipse: when and where you can see it, viewing techniques and safety tips.

<http://eclipse2017.nasa.gov/safety>

Find out which spacecraft, balloons and ground-based teams will observe the August 21, 2017 total solar eclipse.

<http://eclipse2017.nasa.gov/observations>

Visit the NASA Science website to find celebrations, information and activities for researchers, citizen scientists, educators, teens and kids.

<http://science.nasa.gov>

NASA's Eyes on the 2017 Eclipse is an interactive, 3-D simulation of the August 21, 2017 total eclipse.

<http://eclipse2017.nasa.gov/nasas-eyes>

NASA will host the Eclipse MegaCast, which will provide unique broadcast coverage across multiple locations.

<http://eclipse2017.nasa.gov/eclipse-megacast>

Experience the 2017 solar eclipse in many fun, creative and challenging ways, from family-friendly activities to sophisticated science projects. Explore activities and find out about public engagement happenings in your community.

<http://eclipse2017.nasa.gov/activities>

Use the NASA toolkit to view videos and images, download a poster, or create Eclipse in a Box—a portable eclipse demonstration kit. You can also make 3-D pinhole projection cards and share your do-it-yourself ideas.

<http://eclipse2017.nasa.gov/toolkit>

NP-2016-10-510-GSFC

EXPERIENCE
THE 2017 ECLIPSE
ACROSS AMERICA
THROUGH THE EYES OF NASA
<http://eclipse2017.nasa.gov>

www.nasa.gov

